So many people get the idea that it has to take months or years to make money online. That is absolutely not the case. The goal here is to open up your mind to the possibilities. Get into the mindset that you can and will succeed with making money this week.

There is no push-button solution to making money online. You are going to have to work for it. With that said, earning money online isn't exactly back-breaking work. You get to work on a computer from the comforts of home. It doesn't get much better than that.

Prepare yourself to spend more hours than usual (many more, if this is your first time trying to make money online) this week as you strive to reach your goal. Put aside your fears and internal debates that you won't succeed-- you can succeed if you put your mind to it.

You're standing on the doorstep of great possibility. There is money out there people will be ready and willing to pay you for things they want or need. You're going to focus on the things people want and need now so you can get paid now.

The Internet is very fast moving. That can be daunting sometimes, but it's absolutely wonderful for you. There are places where people go to search for things they need and they spend money on those things right away. If you can put your offer right in their path, this week, you will make money this week. It's as easy as that.

After you put one or more of these plans into operation, and once you see that income from your computer is a definite possibility, then you'll be in a position to decide if this is indeed for you. You might love it, you might hate it, and some of the plans are similar to a job, except you'll be the boss, and you'll set the hours and the prices and be able to choose who your clients will be.

But then, after you get used to this, you can move on to other plans, either a different one that we talk about in this book, or something completely different that I teach elsewhere.

For now, I want to focus on how you can make money this week. Are you ready?

What You Need to Know Before Getting Started

We've covered some of the things you need to know before we get started, but I want to highlight a few more things. First, you need to enter into this with enough confidence in yourself that you can give this a fair shake. It's only a week, after all. Give this project your absolute all this week and you'll be much more likely to see the results you want to see.

You also need to make sure you follow the steps as I've laid them out. The unfortunate thing about the Internet is that there are always going to be distractions. There are always going to be people who do things differently than you or I do. There is always going to be "something else" out there.

But, that's not what you're worried about this week. This week, your "job" is to choose a fast-earning method that suits your talents and Interests. You need to choose one you believe you have a strong chance of following through with and earning with. The great thing about this book is that I'm giving you a full 10 methods to try out...but you need to promise yourself that you will only choose and focus on one this week. You have to pretend the other methods don't exist for right now. You need to have unshakeable focus in order to make this work. Even if you have focus issues (trust me-- many Internet marketers do) promise yourself that you will follow through with great passion this week.

If you want, you can read this whole book before you start, but again, after doing that, choose one method, focus on it, and don't worry about anything else for now.

After all, it IS only a week, you can avoid distractions that long, right? Sure you can.

Getting Into the Right Mindset (Yes, you can earn money this week)

I hope it's not the case with you, but I know there are many people reading this who don't truly believe they can earn money this week. The funny thing is that there are marketers out there who've earned money in the past, let "life" get in the way, and have decided to try again. Even though they've already had success, they'll still doubt they can make this work. Again, I hope that doesn't describe you.

Life has a funny way of handing you whatever you expect it to hand you. If you believe, without a doubt, that you will earn money this week your chances of doing so are very high. If you believe, and doubt, and find excuses...your chances of earning money this week are extremely low.

Do yourself a favor: close your eyes and watch yourself fervently working at the computer. See yourself smiling as you get payment notifications rolling in. See yourself relieved to know that your money issues are taken care of for this week. See yourself give a satisfied sigh as you know, truly know, that you are in control of your business, your finances, and your life from this point on.

Now, open your eyes. Do you feel more prepared to turn that into a reality? Without getting into a bunch of deep spiritual stuff, doing little vision exercises like that can have a dramatic impact on outcomes. Your conscious and subconscious mind will start to believe and feel these lifestyle changes. You'll naturally know what you need to do to make life work exactly the way you want it to work.

It's a mindset game. The people who constantly doubt and find reasons why they will fail...will fail. The people who never give up and see themselves as a success already, succeed. The people with a positive mindset have the strength to find solutions to any problem that pops up.

This dramatically increases the chances of success.

Things will not always go as you planned and you will be taking chances as a marketer. You will have ups and downs. It's how you handle those things and grow and innovate that determines your success. Don't be one of those people who is a downer...you're setting yourself up for failure. Find ways to succeed, don't find excuses as to why you won't.

Why This is All You Should Focus on for Right Now

There are a million and one things screaming for your attention right now. Maybe you have kids, a job, pressing financial issues, fun things you'd rather do, and a slew of "bright shiny objects" there to distract you from your path.

You have to make some changes right now if you're going to get through this with flying colors. You need to set yourself up for success. Unsubscribe from or filter the marketing emails that are going to distract you. Reward your action-taking with rewards and entertainment for a job well done. Explain what you're doing to your family so they can abide by the expectations on your time-- set office hours, if you need to.

If you divide your focus, you will fail. That's all there is to it. Don't choose two of these methods and try to make a go of them at the same time. This week, your life is dedicated to one method and one method only.

Don't do this halfway. If you start this project and stop it in favor of another marketing idea, and then drop that one in favor of a new one, you will not succeed.

Promise yourself that this is all you will focus on this week. Most of the methods only require a couple of hours a day to really put into practice before you have money in your bank account. You can do this along with any of life's responsibilities that you can't set aside. Everything else can wait.

The Importance of Setting Goals

There is a lot of research out there on the importance of goal setting. The most important thing for you to know right now is that those who set goals, succeed. Those who do not set goals swim around wildly in the dark, without really getting anywhere. If you want to succeed, you need to set actionable, specific goals.

The goal at the top of your mind right now is how much money you want to earn. You can't just say, "I want to earn more money this week." That is not tangible or specific. How much do you want to earn.

"I will earn $300 this week."

That's a much more achievable and solid goal. You are setting your mind up to help you succeed and achieve.

Write down your list of goals. Make them as specific as you can-- using timeframes, dollar amounts, and whatever else you need to make them very solid, actionable, and achievable in your mind.

Revisit these goals every day this week. You'll see yourself starting to take actions that will naturally lead to you succeeding.

Tapping Into Your Skillsets

I know you're really anxious to get started, but I want to talk a bit about skillsets before you read about the many different fast-earning models I've written about for you to choose from. That's because as great as a method sounds, it might not be the right one for you. For instance, some of the methods revolve around an ability to write. If you're not a good writer or you dislike writing, you should choose a method that will be a better fit.

The point is not to get discouraged by the things you wish you could do, but can't. I've included so many different models because there is bound to be something you know you can do well.

Consider your past jobs, hobbies, and passions. I work with people one on one and I find that there is always something in a person's experience that translates very well into earning money online. A teacher might do well with info products. A lawyer might make a series of legal tools available to marketers. Someone who's done odd jobs might write a book showing others how to make a living doing odd jobs. Just get creative and let yourself be drawn to something you know you can do.

Get Up and Running... Today!

There's something I constantly find myself telling those I mentor. That is, "money loves speed." I don't want this to become a book that just sits on your hard drive, never to be used. There is a terrible epidemic in online marketing-- it's incredible how many people get excited about a product, buy it, and then never do anything with it.

Instead they'll then just go buy another product... and never do anything with that.

You can't let that happen this time. There is a reason you bought this book. There is a reason you're nodding along as you read this, knowing it's going to be the thing that helps change your life forever. Don't lose that drive. Don't give this a try for a few days, only to forget about your project and your goals. Follow this through to completion.

I'm going to be extremely thorough as I detail the 10 fast-money methods. I don't want anything to hold you up. If there does happen to be something you're confused about, please do yourself a favor and push through it. Ask questions, find an answer on YouTube, and Google it.

The difference between those who succeed and those who do not is successful people don't let anything stand in their way.

There is no reason for you to put this off until tomorrow or next week. Today is the first day of the rest of your life. Get started today, and you'll see the rewards sooner. Seize this as your chance to make your life exactly what you want it to be. You'll be so pumped up a week from now when you have cash in hand-- you'll have the confidence to know that you can make online marketing work for you, for as long as you want it to.
